“FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE”

Outerlimits Boat Manufacturing and Governor Donald L. Carcieri; Enjoying Rhode Island’s Rising Economic Tide

Bristol, Rhode Island: June 26, 2006. Mike Fiore, President of Outerlimits Offshore Powerboats, and his 70+ employees and their guests, enjoyed a visit by The Honorable Governor Donald L. Carcieri to the manufacturing facility, located at 91 Broad Common Road, in Bristol this afternoon. On display were several of the $1,000,000.00 plus, race inspired, offshore craft that Outerlimits has become famous for producing. Once again the Governor is showing his commitment to the small businesses of the Ocean State.

Although Mike Fiore’s vision for Outerlimits has seen a doubling in his work force over the last three years, and has created a one-and-a-half year waiting list for these million dollar boats, he has not lost touch with the original motivation that got him here. Said Mike, “we’re going to continue to build these boats by hand, one at a time, with the best components available and the best technology to go with it. When our client’s take possession of their boats, they know that they now own something truly unique in the boating world.”

As far as locating his business in Rhode Island, Mike said: “when this business began to take-off, I could have gone anywhere [from previous New York headquarters]. Several states looked appealing, but the business climate in Rhode Island seemed to mesh well with our goals. In fact, I just acquired another 14,000 square foot building next door to the shop. Now, I’ve got the Governor of the State here wanting to know more about my business. It means a lot to me and my employees that he would care enough to be here.”
